June Weddings Set Mark For New York Social World

Marriage of Miss Edith Mortimer to the Conte de Zoppola, of the Italian Army, Is the Leading Affair of the Week; Many Are Leaving the City

Society has had the busiest month in three years, and it has just been one continued round of weddings from the first of June up to the present. Saturdays throughout the month have brought the most marriages, and yesterday a dozen of note took place, most of them in the country. The guests from the city went out either by motor or in special cars attached to the regular trains.

The wedding which was most largely attended yesterday, and which brought together most of the Long Island set, was that of Miss Edith Mortimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, to Conte di Zoppola, of the Italian army. It took place at Roslyn House, the beautiful country place of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer, at Roslyn, Long Island. The ceremony was followed by a reception and breakfast, for which a few additional guests were invited.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Louis Martel of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. The bride, who will join the Catholic Church, wore a gown of ivory satin, trimmed with rare point lace worn by her grandmother. Her veil was fastened with a single strand of diamonds given to her by Count Guiseppe di Zoppola, father of the bridegroom. She wore a diamond corsage ornament, the gift of her mother. The library was transformed into a chapel, the walls of the rooms were covered with wild oak branches and the altar was decorated with white rambler roses and Easter lilies. An aisle was formed by white posts covered with lilies-of-the-valley.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Morton Breese, Mrs. Darragh A. Park, Mrs. Alexander Biddle, Mrs. James Lloyd Derby, Mrs. Louis Noel, Miss Leonie Burrill and Miss Margaret Sergent.

Count Garaciolo was the best man.

The wedding originally was set for June 21, but had to be postponed on account of the delayed arrival of the bridegroom from Italy.

Conte di Zoppola and his bride, after a short wedding trip, will go to Newport to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer, who will open their villa there this week.

They will sail at the end of July for Italy.

Yesterday's bride, while driving her automobile last November, with Captain Forde, of the French Military Mission, who was a guest at her home in Roslyn, ran down and killed two men in Flushing. After a trial extending over several weeks in the Queens County Supreme Court, she was acquitted.

Among the guests were Brigadier General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Miss Grace Vanderbilt, Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. William Forbes Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mr. and Mrs. William Payne Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Count Dentice di Frasso, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, Mr. H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. W. Goodby Lewis, Miss Barbara Loew, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitney, Clarence H. Mackay, Miss Katherine Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Winston, Mr. and Mrs. F. Skiddy von Stade, Mrs. Devereaux Milburn, Mr. and Mrs. George Rose and Miss Flora Whitney.

Owing to both families being in mourning the wedding was small and quiet, with only relatives and a few intimate friends in attendance.

Historic First Church Is To Be Torn Down

Reformed Episcopal Work at Madison and 55th St., However, Will Not Be Dropped

The historic First Reformed Episcopal Church, at Madison Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, is to be torn down. The Supreme Court has just ratified the covenant of sale. A large apartment hotel will occupy the corner.

The congregation will retain possession of the building until November. It will not abandon the neighborhood. A building in the vicinity will be leased and the activities of the parish will be reorganized along broader lines than at present.

The rectorship of the church was made vacant by the death in France of the Rev. Dr. William Dubose Stevens, who was serving as a Red Cross chaplain. No effort will be made immediately to fill his place. Instead, a headworker, the Rev. David McKinley, of Philadelphia, has been called, and he will serve under the immediate direction of the vestry, acting as a committee of the whole.

The activities of the parish will be concentrated for a time in a single building. A chapel will be provided and there will be meeting rooms for all the societies. The military organization, which was disbanded some time ago, will be reorganized and a discharged army officer will be engaged to command. The boys will be thoroughly trained and will have their own camping ground on a large tract in New Jersey, owned by a society affiliated with the parish. A similar organization will be formed for the girls. There will be a men's club with a forum. Prominent speakers will be invited to address its gatherings and there will be ample opportunity for open discussions.

Relaxed Code for Women Called One Of Big War Evils

"Women Differ by Width of Heaven From Mothers," Says English Justice in Assailing Lax Morals

New York Tribune Foreign Press Bureau

Justice Darling recently interjected in the trial of an English law case the remark: "In nothing has the war done more harm than in the relaxation on the part of women. This has now reached a point that can be seen in a walk along the street. Women differ by the width of Heaven from what their mothers were."

Many English women discussed the Justice's views and their opinions were recorded by "The Daily Mail," which said:

"We must never again expect to have Victorian respectability," said Dr. Mary Schreiber last evening. "The daughter lives to-day in a very different world from that in which her mother existed. She is surrounded by far more temptations. The telephone, the motor car, the general speeding up of life, all tend in the one direction morally."

"I do not see any immediate prospect of the present—let us call it lightness passing off. Fundamentally, it is the logical outcome of women becoming independent economically and, in a lesser degree, politically. A girl is meeting men more on a level than that is telling both ways. But I would not say that she compares badly with her mother."

"It is no use ever expecting a revival of parental control among the masses. The girl will henceforth control herself. I would say further that Mr. Justice Darling has probably uttered his dictum as the result of a walk down the Strand. But let us cease to compare ourselves with the Victorians. We are worse—and better."

"Why," asked Lady Muir-Mackenzie, "do you not say that the remarks to men? I am tired of men laying down the law for women. The open, unrestrained pleasure quest of today is far less harmful morally than the hidden, secret quest of yesterday of the Victorians. You cannot judge life by what you see on the surface. In any case, I always look on the views of a judge as warped."

"I think," said Mme. Clara Butt, "we are getting away from that awful prudery—false, half the time—by getting used to seeing beauty for beauty's sake, not for any other motive."

"What Mr. Justice Darling says is only too true," was the view expressed at a famous women's association. "The war has entirely changed the former reserved attitude of young women toward the opposite sex. Much of the present laxity is unquestionably due to young girls taking drink. Every one is far too overexcited nowadays for a decent moral tone to win through. If things go on as they are at present—well, the width of another place than heaven will separate the women of today, had as they are as a whole, from the daughters of to-morrow."

London Critics Astonished
By Work of Girl Artist

LONDON, June 28.—London art critics express astonishment over the drawings being exhibited at the Leicester Galleries by a thirteen year old girl, Pamela Bianco. She was born in England and now lives in Italy. Musical child prodigies, it is pointed out, are not uncommon, but it is doubtful whether other instances of such precocity in drawing as Miss Bianco's are on record. Already, the critics say, she has a strongly marked individuality which is revealed in all her work. A large frieze and two large decorative female heads are among her pictures on exhibit. Her power of design on a large scale is regarded as remarkable. Another picture of hers is of a children's peace celebration, and the expression of the children's faces is so good that the experts are amazed.

Sinn Fein Author Declares Irish Language Is Dying

DUBLIN, June 28.—The Irish language is dying, Desmond Fitzgerald, author and member of the Sinn Fein, told the members of that organization in a pessimistic speech at the Sinn Fein headquarters. Mr. Fitzgerald said the Irish language had been dying since Easter week last year, when the Sinn Fein clash with the authorities took place in Dublin. Speaking of the wearing of the Irish kilt, he said he could not imagine the Irish people wearing it at work in the fields. He regarded the separation of Ireland from England as more urgent culturally than politically.

At the CABARETS

As the summer season progresses and the thermometer rises, the value of the refrigerating plant at the Little Club is becoming more and more appreciated by after-theatre supper parties. The ice plant, which was established at the first sign of hot weather, sends a circuit of cool air throughout the "Club." The entertainment programme, headed by Adrienne Doré, continues to prove attractive.

It is something to be in a cool, refreshing atmosphere where one can eat a real old-fashioned Southern dinner and have it seasoned with a peppery, entertaining musical comedy. At Reisenweber's, "Going Some," written and produced by Henry Fink, is presented three nights, and in the show one may find everything from ragtime to opera, and from an Irish scene to the grandeur of the Oriental.

Capacity crowds continue nightly at Fountain Inn, on the Merrick Road, in Lynbrook. "If we are fortunate enough to get a long spell of the ideal weather we are enjoying," says Henri, the congenial manager of the inn, "we will cater to a record breaking season."

It is announced that both of the Susskind motor stop-offs—Pelham Heath Inn, on the Pelham Parkway, and Blossom Heath Inn, at Lynbrook, will soon undergo alterations that will make them the largest roadhouses along the highways. An important feature of both resorts is the rendition of dance as well as classical numbers, offered by Al Jockers's orchestra.

"Do you know," said Theodore, of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel roof garden, the other day, "that 85 per cent of the persons who reserve tables for dinners here want to be near the door? We have our hands full trying to convince them that it is impossible."

With a view to strengthening and making more elaborate than ever the dainty musical revue, "Before and After," now being presented at the Ritz Restaurant, Brooklyn, several new and novel acts are to be added within the next few days.

There is sufficient "warmth" added to the novelty of dining and dancing around a huge cake of ice "on the roof," at Thomas Healy's Golden Glades to attract the masses. "Blossom Festival," the entertainment feature of this dining resort, has established itself with pleasure seekers.

Disregarding the fact that hostilities have ceased abroad, Lieutenant J. Tim Brynn, dean of syncope, continues to shell the dance mad public with the jazziest, wildest, most intoxicating music at the Hotel Shelburne, at Brighton Beach. In the range of the high explosive TNT jazz of this overseas sensation, Lieutenant Brynn's programme runs from the "Whizzbang" shell of syncope to the "Jack Johnson" sublimated jazz. It is a veritable jazz orgy, and when Mr. Jazz cuts loose on jazz—oh, boy!

Dolly Carie, a singing and dancing ingenue has been added to the colorful cabaret at Churchill's. Special preparations are being made for a unique celebration for the first Peace Fourth of July.

Augmented by new and clever stars and musical numbers that are whistleable, "The Spice of Life" has settled down for an all summer run at the Palais Royal.

In spite of the warm weather, the daily tea dances in the Palm Room of the Hotel Martinique are becoming more popular from day to day.

"How do you manage to keep your patrons interested without furnishing cabaret or entertainment of some sort?" Mortimer Kelly, manager of Murray's Roman Gardens, was asked. "Persons who intend going to a theatre prefer to dine leisurely," Mr. Kelly replied. "Then by way of variety there is the revolving floor and the orchestra. I believe in letting people entertain each other. Why not stay for dinner," he added genially, "and watch the performance?"

Despite reports to the contrary, the Moulin Rouge is not going to dispense with its unique entertainment "The Revue Intime." Manager Spear has authoritatively stated that the piece will continue as the main entertainment feature and will be brought up to date from time to time by the interpolation of novelty acts. Telma Carlton, whose terpsichorean creation "Oriental Jazz" has made her a Broadway favorite, will continue as the featured number of the revue.

"The most beautiful and natural rendezvous for motorists that we have ever seen in our travels," said Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, wife of the famous movie star, who, with her sister, Mrs. Marie MacLean, returned to New York after a trip to the Ross-Fenton Farm at Asbury Park. Located on Deal Lake, this dining and dancing establishment is the showplace of the Jersey coast.

Automobilists and visitors to Long Beach are beginning to make the Beaux Arts Hotel at that popular summer resort their headquarters for week-end trips and short vacations. Judging by the number of New York parties that made the Beaux Arts their rendezvous last Sunday, the new hostelry bids fair to become one of the most popular spots in exclusive Long Beach. Although only opened to the public a few weeks, it has already gained for itself a reputation for its cuisine, smart surroundings and moderate tariff. Messrs. George & George, proprietors, have had years of hotel experience in New York City and are aiming to make their establishment the most popular and conservative hostelry at any shore resort near New York.
